The Farm

THE WEEKLY

FARM

I would be glad to hear from anyone who has a spare cow that gives milk in the winter when as a rule she is dry. Let us all try to put a little more glory and a little more cheer in the world. Let us bring more sunshine into our lives, and not sit around in the dark and grumble. Let us scatter more flowers along the pathway of life, and not wait until we get to the end of the journey before we begin to plant them. Let us speak more kind words to the weary travelers we meet on the road of life, and not wait until they have reached the end of the journey before we begin to tell them how much we love them. Let us be more thoughtful of the feelings of others, and not wait until we have passed away before we begin to shower upon them the flowers of love and affection. Let us be more careful to say nothing that will cause pain to the hearts of those around us, and not wait until we have gone to the grave before we begin to say kind words about them. Let us be more careful to do nothing that will cause pain to the hearts of those around us, and not wait until we have gone to the grave before we begin to do kind deeds for them
